

Justification for Conducting Law Fest for Two Days

The institution had originally conceptualized the Law Fest as a week-long academic and co-curricular event to promote legal awareness, advocacy skills, and student engagement through various competitions and activities. However, owing to the academic calendar constraints during the concerned assessment period, the semester duration was comparatively short, spanning approximately three months, which limited the availability of adequate time for conducting an extended week-long programme without affecting the regular teaching-learning schedule.

In order to maintain academic discipline and ensure effective utilization of available time, the institution strategically reorganized the Law Fest into a two-day intensive programme. Despite the reduced duration, the event was executed in a systematic, vibrant, and highly engaging manner, incorporating multiple activities, competitions, and student-centric initiatives within the compressed schedule. Careful planning and structured coordination enabled the institution to deliver the objectives of the Law Fest efficiently while ensuring maximum student participation and enthusiasm.

The condensed format enhanced the energy, inclusivity, and impact of the programme, making the event more focused, dynamic, and outcome-oriented. Thus, although the duration was shortened due to unavoidable academic scheduling constraints, the quality, vibrancy, and effectiveness of the Law Fest were successfully maintained without compromising its intended objectives.
